SMALL FEATURE on MÁTYÁS GYÖRGY SEIBER

1905 - 1960

Hungary - Germany - Great Britain

Mátyás György Seiber was born in Budapest, but he is considered a British composer and teacher. The cello was his principal instrument before dedicating himself to composition - born into a musical family, he started to learn the cello at the age of ten, and from 1919 to 1924 studied at the Budapest Academy of Music with Adolf Shiffer (cello) and Kodály (composition).

From 1925 through to 1928, Seiber taught and lectured, he also played cello with a ship's orchestra. Whilst there he was exposed to, and developed an interest in, jazz. That was so important in his development, as from the late 1920s he taught in Frankfurt where his classes in jazz were the first of its kind in the country.

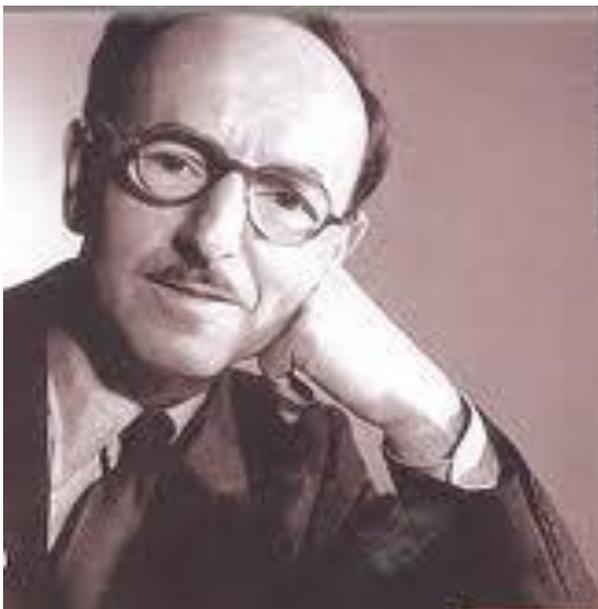

He left Germany in 1933 for Britain when the Nazi government closed the jazz department! In England he worked as a freelance writer and undertook various jobs including writing music for films. He almost immediately gained British citizenship, in 1935. In 1942 Michael Tippett offered him a teaching post at Morley College where during this decade he was a founder of the Society for New Music with Francis Chagrin, and the Dorian Singers.

He was a founding member of the Society for Promotion of New Music, actively promoting new music throughout his life. In 1956 he was awarded the inaugural Ivor Novello Award. He died in a car accident in 1960.

His music is eclectic in style, showing influences from plainchant and folk music, to jazz, and Bela Bartok and Arnold Schoenberg were also strong influences. He wrote in almost all types of instrumental music, including ballets and many, many film scores, but it is for his vocal music that he is best remembered.

Works of Seiber of special interest to cellists:

-  Tre Pezzi for violoncello and orchestra (1956)
-  Sarabande and Gigue for violoncello and piano (1922, revised 1941)
-  Sonata da Camera for violin and violoncello (1925, revision for violin and piano published 1946)
-  Phantasy for violoncello and piano (1941)
-  Introduction and Allegro for clarinet, violoncello and piano
-  Introduction and Allegro for violoncello and accordion
-  3 String Quartets (written in 1924, 1934-35 and in 1948-51)
-  'The Londonderry Air' arranged for string quartet, for solo violoncello and string quartet, and for two or three diatonic harmonicas (1955)

Please do see other original works for many different instruments and groupings, and also special transcriptions for cellists, and cellists with other instruments on the Johnstone-Music web page

Also both general musical and cello based articles, directories of famous historical cellists, and many other items of interest

DOWNLOADS - Many downloads on Johnstone-Music are now available, for those that are interested, at a symbolic payment, which is to help cover the costs of this web site. Some scores/parts are presented in musical edition programmes but generally they are found here in a most “clear” hand-written manuscript copy (the majority to almost a professional copyist standard) and transferred to a PDF file.

As far as Johnstone-Music is concerned you are welcome to publicly perform or record any work or piece found in the web; however you DO need to make mention of the name of the composer and the arranger on any printed information (hand programmes, disc covers etc.).

FREE PUBLICITY - If you care to inform us of any public performance (no matter how formal or informal the event is), recording or other uses of the original music or arrangements of David Johnstone or of other musical colleagues included in this web, we are happy to give your event free publicity on the Johnstone-Music web.

To take advantage of this, try to write to us three weeks or more in advance with any information. Last-minute entries are certainly better than not writing at all - however, understandably, once we have past the calendar month of the event it is not usually possible to add old items to the calendar. It is very interesting for the promoters of Johnstone-Music to have knowledge of your activity - and so in return for your information you will be entitled to a free gift of a work/s for every diary addition you tell us about. To find out more about this, please visit the “Cello Club” section in the web!
